16.191 A Resolution in support of Bill H.1769, The Massachusetts Pregnant Workers Fairness Act - 1st Reading

Motion to approve 16.191
in 1st Reading

Councilor LaBarge moved to approve the resolution in 1st Reading; Councilor Klein seconded the motion. The motion was approved on a roll call vote of 6 Yes, 0 No, 2 Absent (Councilors Murphy and Bidwell), 1 Vacant.

Councilor Sciarra thanked everyone who came and spoke in support of the resolution. She also thanked the local organization MotherWoman and Liz Friedman, Program Director for the company, for leadership and guidance in drafting legislation in support of this issue. The Massachusetts Pregnant Workers Fairness Act was introduced by Representative Ellen Story of Amherst in January of 2015. Representative Peter Kocot is one of the sixty-two co-sponsors. The Bill is presently in the House, Ways, and Means Committee and there is hope that it will pass in an informal session. Baystate Health has also expressed their support for the Bill. Northampton would be the first municipality in the Commonwealth to show support for the Bill by means of local legislation. Not only is the law beneficial to pregnant women and their families, it is good for business. Reasonable accommodations include giving someone who stands behind the counter a stool to sit on, or allowing a pregnant worker to carry water with her, or assistance lifting boxes over a certain weight, or a temporary assignment if someone works with harmful chemicals. The accommodations are often low or no cost and the Bill includes a provision so that they "do not impose an undue hardship". When workers can stay in their job it is good for everyone. When pregnant women can continue to work to support their families it helps their health and economic security. It also helps businesses and the economy. Staff turnover in business is costly and time consuming. When pregnant women can legally ask for the accommodations that they need they can work safely and comfortably through their pregnancy and they are not forced to choose between needed employment or their health. Employer obligations are clarified under this law reducing the need for complaints and mediation. Eighteen other states have passed similar laws. California passed their law sixteen years ago and since that time there has been a decline in pregnancy discrimination charges filed with the US Equal Employment Opportunity Commission while during the same time period the number of complaints increased across the US. The majority of women in the US work and many need to work until the end of their pregnancy. Pregnancy is not an illness and pregnant women are not sick. They are strong and capable but it is a significant physiological experience and Councilor Sciarra believes that there is no reason why pregnant women shouldn't be protected under the law. The country has also made strides in the area of parental leave. The US is still behind other places in the world that offer much more time and support around birth. Without this law women often need to begin their maternity leave while still pregnant. This before birth leave is time the mother does not have with the baby after the birth. Providing accommodations is common sense and decency and Councilor Sciarra hopes this is something everyone can get behind. Councilor Sciarra believes the Bill reflects the community values; that it fits with the support of businesses; that it fits with the support of workers and fair work practices; that it fits with civil and human rights and anti-discrimination policy; and that it fits with the support of women's rights in general and support of woman's rights in Northampton in particular.

Councilor Klein supports Councilor Sciarra's message and notes that the Bill is good for workers, women, children, families and businesses. Personally, Councilor Klein wants to support and patronize businesses that are treating pregnant workers with fairness. In 1960 70% of families had at least one parent at home full time. Today 70% of children are growing up in families that are headed by a single parent or two working parents. To this day, pregnant workers are pushed out of their jobs when all that was needed was a simple accommodation or two to remain employed and to maintain a healthy and comfortable pregnancy. Each year it is estimated that over 250,000 pregnant workers are pushed out of their jobs when all that they would have needed to stay in them is a minor accommodation or two. Workers in low wage and physically demanding jobs are at increased risk to be denied minor accommodations. These are workers who are likely to have less bargaining power in their job; less likely to qualify for Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA); less likely to find replacement income if they lose their job; less likely to have access to temporary disability insurance; and are less likely to have a financial cushion if they lose their jobs. This means that the workers who can least afford to lose their jobs are at highest risk to lose them when they are pregnant. The accommodations are reasonable and temporary and Councilor Klein asks how can we not as a society want to ensure the safety and comfortable pregnancy of all women; how can we not ensure that pregnant women can continue to work while they are pregnant to ensure that they may support their family? If we call ourselves a society that values babies and children, women and families, how can we not do everything possible to allow mothers to have reasonable and temporary accommodations? Besides basic issues of fairness, there is also an economic and public health impact for justifying the passage of a pregnant workers fairness act. Almost 1/2 of the US workforce is made up of women and 75% of those women will become pregnant at some point during their employment. If they and their families are faced with economic insecurity which results in them losing their job, their financial struggles have resounding implications for the economy as a whole. Providing accommodations is crucial to infant and maternal health. Pregnant workers who are denied accommodations are essentially working under unhealthy or dangerous conditions that could put their health at risk, their infant's health at risk, and their pregnancy at risk. A 2015 report by the national based organization Better Balanced says that a clear right to an accommodation not only ensures better health outcomes for women and infants, it also reduces health care costs thus

16.191 Continued	supporting the economy. Councilor Klein notes that the national organization MotherWoman advocates for policies that are good for mothers, mothers-to-be, and families and promotes the leadership and resilience of mothers and mothers-to-be. Under the leadership of Program Director Liz Freidman, the Pregnant Workers Fairness Act has come to the point that it is at in the State House. Councilor Klein hopes that fellow councilors will support the resolution. Councilor LaBarge wished that she had the protections as outlined in the resolution. She thanked members of the public for speaking about the issue; she feels that the proposed legislation is excellent. She believes it is a civil and human rights issue. She has heard of instances that have occurred with pregnant girls who were working in factories years ago. It needs to be done and Councilor LaBarge is glad the issue is in the State House now. She is honored and pleased that the City of Northampton is the first municipality to draft language in support of the Bill. Councilor Carney thanked the staff at MotherWomen and fellow councilors for bringing the resolution forward. She feels it is a very important issue and she appreciates the reference in the resolution to Northampton's right to organize resolution and the living wage resolution. The City has demonstrated that it cares about workplace issues of fairness and justice and it seems to follow that this resolution would be within our purview. The Council is also in a unique position to advocate for worker issues by leading the way with this resolution. Councilor O'Donnell thanked the sponsors for bringing the resolution forward and stated that he would be very proud if Northampton adopted the resolution and was the first in the Commonwealth to do so. There is a direct and obvious benefit to the citizens of Northampton and there is a universal benefit beyond geography. This is an example of moral leadership and Councilor O'Donnell stated that he is very grateful for this. Councilor Dwight noted that it is embarrassing that simple accommodations need to be codified. One would think that this practice would be part of the warp and weave of employment practices. Pregnancy is the most human condition; Councilor Dwight is proud that the Council is addressing this issue. At the same time he is embarrassed that this needs to be discussed in 2016.

Upon recommendation of the Mayor

O-16.187

An Order

To impose a lien for cross-connection charges and fees that have not been paid by the due date

Whereas, in order to ensure that all potable water throughout the Northampton water supply system is free from any potential outside contamination, by regulation of the Department of Environmental Protection the city is required to have an approved program that surveys all potential cross connection sites and tests all devices. Double check valve

Whereas, devices are tested annually and reduced pressure zone devices are tested semi-annually. All commercial, industrial and agriculture buildings must be resurveyed every ten years for cross connections. the city of Northampton bills landowners for fees and charges associated with the cross-connections program including an initial application/approval fee of $65 and an annual fee based upon devices owned and tested; and;

Whereas, M.G.L. c. 40, § 58 provides that "Any city or town may impose a lien on real property located within the city or town for any local charge or fee that has not been paid by the due date, said lien shall be known as the "municipal charges lien"; provided, that a separate vote at a town meeting, or by a city or town council is taken for each type of charge or fee."

Whereas, the city of Northampton cannot presently lien property for unpaid cross-connection charges and fees; and

Whereas, the city desires to include cross-connection charges as a municipal charges lien;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDERED:

In accordance with M.G.L. c. 40, § 58, charges and fees for cross-connections shall be included as a municipal charges lien, and the city may impose a lien on real property located within the city for cross-connection charges and fees that have not been paid by the due date.

Councilor O'Donnell questioned about the typographical question that was asked at the last meeting; Mayor Narkewicz indicated that it was unknown why the ordinance was written the way it was. The Mayor would like to take time to take proper measurements and introduce language changes at a different point but would like to follow-through with the ordinance at this particular time the way it is presented. The Mayor also indicated that the Council will pass this ordinance tonight on second reading; however, the implementation phase may require a bit more time. The Mayor may delay signing the ordinance for up to 10 days. Signage will be installed and the Mayor plans a press release announcing to the public when the ordinance takes effect.
